AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Is Schlitzbaum Charged With Stealing From Penitentiary

Captured in Portland Oregon After Merry Chase of Weeks.

About two weeks ago A. B. Schlitzbaum one time agent for the I. C. Railroad at Fordsville, and who together with J. W. Boatner tried to work the American Express Company for $28,000, afterwards sentenced to the Eddyville penitentiary where he became a shipping clerk for the Penitentiary Shoe Company was arrested at Portland Ore., and will be brought back to Kentucky. He is charged with having fraudulently disposed of some $2,000 worth of feet wear while acting as shipping clerk in the penitentiary.

It became known some time ago that Schlitzbaum had worked a smooth game on the penitentiary authorities. Information was obtained that he shipped shoes that were not ordered supposedly to a confederate who disposed of them. The scheme worked smoothly, Schlitzbaum taking care that the bogus orders were not filled too often and that the shipments went out at opportune times. Finally, when his time was nearly served out, the officials began to suspect Schlitzbaum and shortly after his release it was discovered that he had worked the penitentiary for some $2,000.

Warrants were immediately issued covering as many of the separate shipments as could be definitely ascertained, and the search for the former shipping clerk began. Schlitzbaum possibly did not suspect that his smooth dealings would be discovered even after his departure. He had been confined closely for a long time, had seen very little except the shoes that he shipped. He was pining to see things to make up for what he had lost during his incarceration, and without any thought of getting out of the way of officers, he went to Portland to see the exposition. Whatever was his motive in going so far away, his sight-seeing was suddenly terminating by an officer with brass buttons.

Schlitzbaum's connection with the famous embezzlement case in which J. W. Boatner was implicated, is well remembered by the people of this and adjoining counties. Boatner shipped a package said to contain $28,000 from Owensboro to Fordsville. At Fordsville the package disappeared. Schlitzbaum, the agent, also disappeared, turning up later at Falls of Rough. The package did not appear. Some other money disappeared simultaneously with Schlitzbaum and the package. Both Boatner and Schlitzbaum were arrested, but Boatner was finally cleared. Schlitzbaum was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Death of a Little Child.

Quite a deep gloom has overspread our little town, caused by the sad death of little David Caldwell, the nine year old son of Robert V. and Helen Caldwell, of Louisville Kentucky.

On Sunday, July 9th, he, in company with his mamma and little brother and sisters, arrived here to visit the family of his uncle, Mr. H. H. Davis. He came full of life and boyish glee, in joyful anticipation of a pleasant vacation. But alas, for human plans! On Tuesday night he was taken seriously ill and in spite of the best medical aid, and all that loving hands and hearts could do, the little sufferer breathed his last on Saturday afternoon, and his pure spirit winged its flight to a home of glory, prepared by Him, who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

On Sunday afternoon the dear little lad was laid to rest in the cemetery at this place in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing friends. The parents have the heartfelt sympathy of the town in this, their hour of sad bereavement.

May the great physician heal their hearts and comfort them with the sweet assurance of a joyful reunion in heaven where sickness and sorrow pain and death can never come.

Seriously Cut.

Wade Stratton, a young man who lives about four miles north of Hartford, was seriously cut by Jeff Travis last Friday morning. The difficulty out of which the cutting grew occurred on the public road where a number of hands had been summoned in to work the road.

Travis had been to Hartford and was accompanied by his wife. On his way home, when reaching the point where the hands were at work, he called Mr. Stratton to one side to talk over or about a former difficulty which they had had. A fight ensued and Stratton was slashed across the abdomen, the chest and under the arm each time a frightful gash being made.

Mr. Tom Stratton, father of young Stratton, rushed in to separate them and was cut slightly on the face.

It was first thought that young Stratton's wounds would prove fatal but skillful medical treatment saved him and he is now most out of danger.

FIRE AT DEANFIELD.

Coal Company's Store and Stock Burned Sunday Morning.

Fire at Deanfield at an early hour Sunday morning, destroyed the store and office of the Deanfield Coal company, entailing a loss of $9,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown and was discovered at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, by W. R. Williams, secretary of the coal company. Mr. Williams had a room over the store and was awakened by the smoke in his room. He rushed down stairs and found the lower portion of the building enveloped in flames.

The fire had gained great headway when it was discovered and all efforts to check the flames proved futile.

In the store was the Etnaville postoffice a none of the postoffice effects was saved.

Suicided in Confederate Home.

Judge R. E. Duncan, of Hawesville, committed suicide at the Confederate home at Pewee Valley last Saturday night. He went there for the purpose of being treated for the morphine habit, arriving last Thursday. The papers admitting him to the home did not arrive until Saturday, but he remained as a guest. Saturday night he took a heavy dose of morphine and then severed the arteries in both his wrists. The poison had taken effect when he was discovered, and besides he had almost bled to death, though he was still feebly hacking at his throat with a small knife with which he had cut his wrist. As soon as he was found he was disarmed and as quickly as possible preparations were made to carry him to the operating table in the surgeon's room, but he died before the stairway was reached by the men who were carrying him.

Mr. Duncan was a member of the board of trustees of the Confederate home, having been appointed to the position by Governor Beckham when the home was established.

Successful Music Teacher.

Clear Run, Ky., July 18.—Mr. J. E. Park, has organized a large class in music here consisting of fifty students. The first of the series of lessons was given Sunday July 8th, and the school will close six weeks from that date at which time a grand concert is planned.

Mr. Park is one of the very best musicians of the county and his home people here will spare no effort in making this series of lessons a success in every particular.

CALEB POWERS IS ILL.

His Condition is Alarming to His Friends--Six Years of Confinement is Telling on Him.

Newport, Ky., July 15.—The condition of Caleb Powers' health is alarming his friends. With a steadiness that cannot be checked, it seems he daily grows weaker, and if the rate of decline continues, he will be confined to his cot within a few days. For two days he has been so weak that he has been compelled to lie down all of the time except during those hours he has set apart for exercise. His extreme weakness is evidenced in his speech. A brief conversation exhausts his lungs and he grows pale and gasps. He can eat but two meals a day, and one of these consists largely of watermelon. He deprecates his ailment.

Arrested For Contempt of Court.

Maysville, Ky., July 17.—A warrant was sworn out to-day charging Mayor Helmbold, of Newport, Ky., with contempt. The alleged contempt was for interference with orders of the United States court in regard to the placing of Caleb Powers in jail at Newport. The warrant is now in the hands of United States Marshal Searp. The contempt charges filed last week were withdrawn and the new charge was based on additional evidence.

Two Big Events.

The Big gathering at Sulphur Springs, of over 1,200 people at the Y. M. C. A. rally last Sunday proved to be a record breaker as for as attendance. And no one was disappointed with the program which is given below. The novelty of an all day worship in "God's out of doors" brought this large crowd from 21 different points in the county. We feel certain now as never before that the Young Men's Christian Association has a plea in Ohio County and is fast proving that the character and nature of its works is "worth while." The Association deserves great credit for what we hope will be an annual feature. The program was as follows:

Opening, G. B. Likens, Chairman; Consolation Service led by Dr. E. W. Ford; Quartette, Messrs. Pirtle, Long, Bean and Thomas; Sermon, Rev. W. G. Archer, Owensboro; Noon recess. Boys meeting, Richard Sidenius; girls meeting, Mrs. J. S. Glenn; Music, Hartford Orchestra; Habits, Prof. L. N. Gray; The Boys standard, Prof. O. M. Shultz; Quartette, Address "Out of the Ruts," Rev. W. G. Archer; Address, "The situation," Philo C. Dix, Louisville; Closing exercises, R. Sidenius; Music, Hartford Orchestra.

The trip around the world "given at Hartford last Tuesday night proved to be one of the best social features of the season. It was given under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the local Y. M. C. A. and it was their unselfish work that made it such a success. Leaving the grand Central Station, (Y. M. C. A. Rooms), you took the steamer We Three, (road wagon), to France, (Mrs. R. Holbrook's), where you were received in true French style. After being served with french refreshments and having your fortune told, you boarded the Flenor Air Ship line to sail through the air to Japan, (Dr. E. B. Pendleton's), there rice and tea were taken from real Japanese maids and then by Steamer Dago to Germany, (Misses Nall's), where the crowd partook of weene-wurst, bisquit and coffee, then Barnard's Bullion took you to Sweden, (Sidenius'). After having some klierers you took B. & B. Submarin boat to the New York waiting station, (R. D. Walkers'). While waiting ice cream and cake was nicely gotten away with, then again we boarded the Black & Birkhead Electric Car line to Old Kentucky, (Mrs. J. S. Glenn's), there was served to cool us all. Each home was tastily decorated according to the country represented and much originality was displayed in the costumes worn. We was glad to make the trip and "glader" that we got back to the best country and aye to the best station in the country. R. S.

EASTERN STAR CONFERRED

Masons, Wives, Mothers and Daughters Receive Fraternal Rites at Centertown.

Last Friday Rev. B. F. Jenkins conferred the Eastern Star degree of Masonry at Lodge Hall Centertown, the members of the Centertown lodge, their wives, mothers and daughters and any others entitled to the degree who chose to attend being the beneficiaries. The rites were conferred on fifty new members, more than half of whom were women.

Rev. Jenkins confers the degree in a very impressive manner drawing some splendid lessons from the biblical basis of the work. A most elegantly prepared, capiously supplied and daintily cooked repast was served at noon by the members of the lodge, which quite an enjoyable feature of the days experiences.

Rev. Jenkins delivered a public lecture on Masonry at night which was largely attended and highly enjoyed. It was a great day for the fraternity in Centertown and community.

JUDGE ROASTS HELMBOLD

Says the Mayor was Looking for Trouble and Found It.

Newport, July 19.—Jailer Pleoger, his two deputies and the citizen arrested with them on the charge of disorderly conduct and assault in connection with the commitment of Caleb Powers to the Newport, Ky., jail were to-day dismissed from custody, the court holding that the attempt of Mayor Helmbold to designate where the Federal prisoner should be incarcerated was illegal and that Pleoger and his assistant were justified in resisting the mayor and the policemen whom he called to his assistance.

In rendering his decision, Judge Roebuck said: "In entering the jail Mayor Helmbold in my opening, deliberately sought the trouble, brought on the difficulty, and was directly responsible for the provocation which threatened bloodshed and narrowly missed jeopardizing the lives of innocent men. One may not complain of the assault which he himself has provoked."

A ROMANCE ENDED.

Couple Never Met Until the day They Were Married at Greenville.

Central City, Ky., July 19.—Miss Mary Riley, a pretty young lady of this place, and Mr. H. Smith, of Toledo, Ohio, were quietly married to-day at Greenville by the Rev. Dr. Woodson. Miss Riley and Mr. Smith had never met, but had corresponded with each other for some time, and to-day were to meet in Greenville where, if agreeable to both parties the marriage ceremony was to be performed. Miss Riley, accompanied by her father, boarded the train bearing her future husband at this place, and unknown to each other they traveled the distance between here and Greenville in the same coach. On leaving the train at Greenville they recognized each other from pen pictures given, and being mutually pleased they were married at once. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will visit relatives here for a few and then leave for Toledo, where they will make their future home.

STRANGE STORY

Of a Preacher Who Courted a Girl By Telepathy for Seven Years.

[New York American.]

A story of first love and telepathy between a man and a girl who had once seen, but never spoke to each other was learned recently in Newark by a reporter in an interview with Rev. H. W. Bigelow, a Baptist missionary preacher.

Seven years ago the minister saw a woman whose nature he realized at once was akin to his own. He did not speak to her and never saw her again, but during all separation he has held conversations with her, he says, and received greetings from her daily. He has no doubt that eventually they will meet in the flesh even as their spirits greeted each other at that first meeting.

Rev. Mr. Bigelow has had a church at Pueblo, Mexico, for some years, and his standing in the Baptist church is excellent. His social position is equally good. He is unmarried and lives with his aged mother in a fashionable boarding house at No. 1076 Broad street, Newark—the most aristocratic section of the city. His education is of a character that precludes the probability of his being led astray by freak theories, while his mind is that of an evenly balanced man.

The minister, who is 35 years old, tells his strange story as follows:

"In June, 1898," he said, "I was in Philadelphia on clerical business. I finished it and started to leave the city. While standing on a street corner waiting for a car I experienced a strange sensation, and when I turned, involuntarily, realized in a flash its cause. A young woman, about 18 years old, was standing near me. She was a remarkably beautiful girl, with flowing light hair, large blue eyes, a prettily molded face and well rounded form. She was below the medium height. Every lineament is indelibly impressed upon my mind, and so strong is the recollection the effort of mine to picture or describe her could ever approximate justice to her charms.

I had scarcely rested my eyes upon her when she turned and met my glance. There was an instant interchange of recognition, although we never had seen each other before. I knew I had met my affinity, but my clerical grab precluded the possibility of approaching her and introducing myself. I boarded my car. So did she, and when I left her face was painted on my memory so brightly that nothing has been able to erase the line."

"Did you speak with her, then?" the minister was asked.

"I did not. Verbal intercourse was unnecessary. Our recognition that we were created for each other was spiritual—on a higher plane than any spoken language could have expressed. Our souls spoke to each other, and responded as two beings attuned to the strain. This mutual recognition of our affinity occurred the instant our eyes met."

"I have searched for her seven years, but never have seen her again in the flesh. We are not separated in spirit, however. Day after day she greets me by the telepathic communion of souls, and assures me that we will meet. 'I am always thinking of you,' she says, 'and will always be yours.' My greeting to her is of a kindred nature. I have not been able to visit where she is, although I have visited Philadelphia frequently, and been to other cities, my search never relenting, being encouraged by her uninterrupted communication with me."

"What is the nature of your reply when she communicates with you?" asked the reporter.

"I simply say: 'I, too, am always thinking of you, dear, and I know we shall meet soon.' The greetings and assurances of love are all the messages that pass between us."

Rev. Mr. Bigelow is a handsome man, tall and muscular, with an intellectual, almost spiritual, face, broadening from the chin to the forehead, which is high. His hair, short pointed beard and greenish mustache are of the jet black that becomes such a face. His manner is quiet and restrained.

The minister's remarkable story has been known to intimate friends for a long time, and it was thought the remarks of one that a reporter obtained the facts. Mr. Bigelow's intimates have cast no shadow upon his belief that sooner or later he and the woman he loved at first sight will meet his character being bound for the sincerity of statements he may make.

Sunflower Philosophy.

The house is too noisy for comfort with a child in it, and too lonesome for comfort when the child leaves so there you are.

There are some unreliable travelers, and some unreliable parents, but every person who goes to sea is seasick, and every little body has colic.

When a woman is an amateur horseback rider she appears to as bad an advantage riding on the main street as an amateur singer in public.

When a man gets discouraged and commits suicide he thinks he has discharged his duty to his family by asking other relatives to "be good" to them.

When we don't want to flatter a woman too much about her children we say they look like their father, and then she looks as if she ought to be pleased, and isn't.

An Atchison woman's answer to her friends, objection to her going away from home so much is that the only time her husband kisses her is when she takes a train.

A man died lately (so the story goes) and the doctor said the death was due to heart failure, but his wife said it was due to hating people unnecessarily.

There is a decided coolness between an Atchison man and his wife. In discussing the bible the other day the woman said she believed the story that the whale swallowed Jonah and the one about Daniel in the lions den, &c. The man is mad because she believes those big stories and will not believe the little ones he tells her.

A boy 15 came in, threw his hat on the floor, kicked over a chair and growled that he wanted his dinner "and be quick about it." "You must excuse Reginald's manners," said his mother, to a caller. "He was sick when a child, and got spoiled." "Was he sick long?" said the visitor, expecting to hear of an illness lasting several years. "Oh, yes," replied the mother. "He had the measles 10 days when he was 3."

Cannon Made from Rocks.
[Des Moines Weekly.]

Most people are aware that the fortifications at Malta were cut out of the solid rock, but it is not generally known that rock cannons were used to defend the place when the knights held it.

The knights shaped and bored rocks in the form of gigantic cannon, which, when loaded, contained a whole barrel of gun powder. This shoveled in, the cannon mouths were plugged with pieces of wood as wadding, and loaded up with cannon balls and shells.

Many of these cannon, of which 50 commanded the spots where hostile ships were likely to approach, were able to throw ten-thousand-pound weight of balls.

Nothing surpassed these natural cannon in the days of the knights, and they were unknown anywhere else in the world.

STRANGE RACE.

Of Little People With Monkey Faces Found in Mexico.

[El Paso (Texas) Cor., New York Herald.]

The building of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad is bringing to light near Bacoyana, Mexico, in the western part of the State of Chihuahua, a strange race that live in mountain caverns. Their language is an incoherent gibberish peculiar to themselves, and they leap from crag to crag like wild animals.

The county around Bacoyana is as wild as can be found anywhere in the republic, and its isolation accounts for the fact that such a race could thus long remain untouched by the forward march of civilization.

Judge Jay Goode, of Texas, and for several years on the bench of the District Court here, has just returned from a tour of research in Mexico, during which he penetrated the country inhabited by this queer people. Starting from La Luz mining camp on a mountain climbing mule, and led by a trusty guide, Judge Goode traveled four days until he came to what he considered an advantageous point from which to make observations.

He camped and formed the acquaintance of Father Mariano Guerrero, a recluse priest, who has lived in Northern Mexico more than a quarter of a century. From Father Guerrero Judge Goode obtained much information relative to these people, who, like prairie dogs, scuttle back into their subterranean homes whenever intruders come near.

"It was the most wonderful sight I ever beheld," said Judge Goode, "and now that the railroad is opening up that section to communication with the world I predict that before another year students from all over the county will be in Mexico to study this remnant of humanity. These people are almost dwarfish in size, and their faces remind one of the baboon or monkey. They are neither Mexican nor Indian. In fact, they seem a distinctive race, unlike any other in existence. They are timid to such an extent that they seldom permit an outsider to approach them, and they flee from a camera as if it were a Gatling gun. I made numerous unsuccessful attempts to take snapshot photographs, and, although I obtained several good views of the locality, not once could I catch a picture of the individuals themselves."

"The only semblance of civilization is the fact that these people do, after a fashion, till the soil. Their method of farming is primitive, and the yield is limited to a few varieties of fruit and vegetables which thrive in Northern Mexico regardless of cultivation."

"Although I saw no warlike demonstrations Father Guerrero, who knows these people perhaps better than any other person, informed me that when aroused they are extremely pugnacious, ever ready to rush upon an enemy with bow and arrow. In fighting they go in droves. Their language is different from anything I ever heard. It is an incoherent conglomeration of low, guttural sounds, more like the grunt of a hog than the articulation of a human being, and, judging from the sound, its variations and inflections, their vocabulary does not exceed 200 words."

"Father Guerrero says that although he has never learned to interpret their language and has never been able to engage them in conversation they seem to know that he is a spiritual adviser, and they have often approached him, one at a time, and by signs have given him to understand that they wanted his blessing. They evidently have some idea of religion, although they have no places of worship."

"Upon being blessed by the priest they scamper away much after the fashion of scared rabbits. Clothing is used sparingly, for the climate is genial."

"If Mr. Roosevelt could see this community he would decide that race suicide is not imminent, for children are as thick as pickaninies on a New Orleans wharf. All property seems to be in common and everybody comes and goes as he pleases. There is no marriage or divorces—in fact so far as an outsider can see, there is an absence of domestic wrangles, scandal, theft, gambling and many of the evils that beset civilized communities."

Postmaster Must be Watchful.

The attention of Postmasters and railway postal clerks is directed to section 499 of the Postal Laws and Regulations of 1902 (Sec. 2, Act of September 19, 1890), by the provisions of which newspaper or others publications of any kind, circulars and pamphlets, containing advertisements of lotteries, gifts, contests of similar enterprises for the distribution of prizes by lot or chance, or lists of the prizes awarded in pursuance of such scheme and all other matter relating to them are declared to be non-mailable. The terms of "lottery, so-called gift contest," or similar enterprise offering prizes dependent upon lot or chance" as used in that section, include "guessing" or "estimating" contests for prizes, as well as drawings and raffles of every kind, whether general or local, whether for private gain or in aid of charitable, educational or religious objects, and whether the consideration for chances be money or otherwise. Enterprises in which prizes are distributed among purchasers of merchandise in stated amounts, or among subscribers for publications, or for shares of corporate stock, through the medium of drawings or guessing contests, are lotteries within the meaning of that section. Publications, circulars, cards or pamphlets containing advertisements of such enterprises, or notices or other information of any kind relating to them, should be withdrawn from the mails and treated in accordance with sections 573, 602 and 624 of the Postal Laws and Regulations.

The Post-Office Department is endeavoring to enforce the anti-lottery statutes strictly and with thoroughness. Postmasters, railway, postal clerks, and all other officers and employees charged with the handling of mail matter are therefore expected to examine such matter especially publications, with the greatest care consistent with prompt transmission and delivery, and to withdraw or exclude all such as is ascertained to relate to lotteries or like enterprises. Many Postmasters have been found negligent in this regard, as well as in the enforcement of friend orders against lotteries located in foreign countries, announcement of the issuance of which is made from time to time in the monthly Postal Guide.

DOG WITH A HUMAN FACE.

Strange Monstrosity Seen By Many Persons in Colorado Hills.

Buena Vista, Col., July 15.—A strange animal roaming the hills in the vicinity of Wildhorse, a station on the Colorado and Midland railway, two miles west of this city, has been seen a number of times by various people and has been described, differently by each one.

The most startling of all, however, was the experience of a prominent ranchwoman last evening. She was driving slowly along the road across the Arkansas river, from where the animal has its lair when her horse suddenly shied, almost throwing her from the rig. She was horrified to see, a few feet ahead of her and in the middle of the road the monstrosity.

It was about the size and build of a full-grown greyhound and of a drab color, its glistening sides being covered with black spots as large as silver dollars. It had a long smooth tail and the woman declares it had an almost human face, and a bristling red mustache ornamented the proper place upon its physiognomy. The eyes were close together and deep set and its ears stood erect and were very pointed. After a moment it uttered a piteous cry and slunk away through the brush, turning at the top of the hill for a last look. It stood erect on its hind feet, punctured the rarified atmosphere with sounds that reverberated among the crags and compelled a pace on the part of the usually stupid horse that was a revelation to the driver. A number of hunting parties have tried in vain to kill this animal and efforts are being made to capture it alive.

Men Who Kill a Town.

The following, clipped from an exchange, contains some stubborn facts that cannot be denied: A town that never had anything to do in a public way is on the way to the cemetry. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town, furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time for business to give to city affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the horse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise, throws bouquets on the grave. The man who is so stingy and selfish as to be howling hard times, preaches the funeral sermon and sings the doxology, and thus the town lies buried, free from all sorrow and care.

COLLECTS CIGAR STUBS.

New York Millionaire Has the Strangest Fad Ever Known.

(Chicago Tribune)

Clinton W. Barnes, the New York attorney and millionaire, is the owner of perhaps the strangest collection of any person in the world. His one fad is to collect the cigar stubs of famous men, and he has a collection of over 7,000 "butts" of cigars that have been solace or comfort to the tobacco lovers of the last 30 years. His collection embraces the stubs thrown away by Presidents, Kings, Emperors, pretenders, millionaires, Senators, Speakers of the House, Congressmen, candidates for the Presidency, great Generals and other famous men of his time.

For the last 30 years he has been saving, labeling and recording the unique souvenirs, and servants in palaces, waiters at banquets and others have found it to their profit to bring to him the remnants of delicious smokes of great men—providing they can prove beyond a doubt that the relic of past enjoyment is bona fide.

It is hard to deceive Mr. Barnes. He knows his men and he knows cigars. He has the peculiarities of smokers. It is said that if he were given the stub of a cigar smoked by any of the great men of to-day he could tell almost at a glance who smoked it, providing it came from the private stock of the smoker and had been smoked in the ordinary way. He can tell by the way cigars are chewed, or not chewed, by the way they are marked with the teeth, by their length, by the side that is burned deepest, and by a hundred and one different ways whether or not the stub is genuine.

Among the "butts" in the collection is one of a black, slender, puntella shaped cigar of Havana tobacco that once was held between the teeth of William of Germany, and beside it is the cork tipped, crested, highly flavored stub of a cigarette, with a part of the Black Eagle of Germany showing of the paper, that once satisfied the desire of the war lord.

Next to that in the collection is a fat black hand-rolled and hand-filled perfecto that was smoked by King Edward VII of England. The cigar was smoked by him on board his royal yacht a year ago. The brand is a special one prepared for the ruler by a firm in Havana, and the cost is $1 each in lots of 1,000.

The "butt" of J. Pierpont Morgan's cigar, as shown in the Barnes collection, is typical of the man. The cigar is fat, black, and strong, smoked less than half way down, and evidently smoked rapidly because it burned unevenly and far down at one side. The tobacco in the cigar is the finest in all the collection, as the multimillionaire orders his own cigars made and pays over $1 each for them, smoking as many as 25 a day and seldom smoking one more than half way down. He chews the cigar heavily, showing nervousness. Another treasure is the stub of a cigar smoked by President Grant a few months before his death—one of those that helped kill him, according to anti-tobaccoists. The cigar is a cheap one, possibly a three-for-a-quarter grade, and of dark Connecticut tobacco with a Cuban wrapper, and it was among the last cigars smoked by the famous General before he died.

Another gem is one of Bismarck's cigars one of the rare ones that he smoked as an interlude between puffs at his pipe. Attorney Barnes paid $100 for the cigar, which was smoked at a banquet in Berlin. The cigar is less than half smoked, and is bitten nearly through, showing the grim old German's habit of biting his pipe stem violently.

There are four of Grover Cleveland's remnants in the collection and all different, showing that Cleveland is not a discriminating smoker, although two of the cigars are from banquets. The President evidently held the cigars more with his lips than with his teeth, because they are only slightly chewed.

There are three Cannon stubs—two long remnants of "stogies," chewed half way up, giving them a paint brush effect, and one fine perfecto that also shows that the Speaker chews his cigars vigorously, and

The crown of womanhood is motherhood. But once the head that wears the crown or anticipates this coronation, when there is a lack of womanly strength to bear the burdens of maternal dignity and duty. The reason why so many women sink under the strain of motherhood is because they are unprepared.

"I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mills, Northumberland Co., Va. "The reason for this advice is that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best preparative for the maternal function. No matter how healthy and strong a woman may be, she cannot use 'Favorite Prescription' as a preparative for maternity without gain of health and comfort. But it is the women who are not strong who best appreciate the great benefits received from the use of 'Favorite Prescription.' For one thing its use makes the baby's advent practically painless. It has in many cases reduced days of suffering to a few brief hours. It has changed the period of anxiety and struggle into a time of ease and comfort.

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, of Buffalo, N. Y., ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

combines smoking and chewing with great success.

There are cigars that were smoked by the Queens of Romania and Portugal, and a big stub of a cigar that cost Mr. Barnes $75, which was smoked by the Sultan of Turkey, a much-smoked stub—barely a remnant that was enjoyed by the veteran Duke of Cambridge before he arose to make one of his famous after-dinner speeches.

Do You Want Strength?

If you want to increase your strength you must add too and take from the physical. In other words, the food you eat must be digested, assimilated and appropriated by the nerves, blood and tissues before being expelled from the intestines. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure adds to the physical. It gives strength to and builds up strength in the human system. It is pleasant to the taste and palatable, and the only combination of digestants that will digest the food and enable the system to appropriate all of its health and strength-giving qualities. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

How to Be Popular.

Be natural. People are quick to discern affection of any kind and have a contempt for it, so give up affectation. Be neat. There is great charm in neatness. Be affectionate and sympathetic and don't be self-conscious and ashamed to show either quality. Be home loving and kind to all old people and children. These are womanly qualities all love and admire the womanly girl. Don't have "moods." Avoid the blues. People like to know how to find a girl, not to have to renew her acquaintance every time they meet. Be athletic, as that means health, and healthiness means wholesomeness.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oklandon, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and to-day she is well and strong." It kills the germ of all diseases. One dose relieves. KISSES SAVE WHEAT CROP

Rain Was Coming and "Hands" Were Listless, So Miss Huston Offered Prizes.

Kisses and hugs bestowed by a pretty girl saved her father's wheat crop, valued at $33,000 from rain in Saline county, Kansas, last week. The kisses and hugs were given as prizes by Mabel Huston, the eighteen-year-old daughter of S. H. Huston a wheat farmer, to the men whom the farmer hired to take care of his wheat.

Harvest hands have been scarcer in Kansas this year than for many seasons. The farmers of Central Kansas received word from the Government weather offices on Friday that a heavy rain was expected that night. All wheat which remained unshocked when it came would be ruined.

The greater part of the Huston wheat was unshocked when Farmer Huston and the dozen men who went into the field on Friday. Mr. Huston tried to impress on the men the necessity for hurrying their work. The men, many of whom had been imported for the season from other states, gave little heed to his worry.

Then Miss Huston went into the field with the morning drink of Buttermilk for the men and when they had gathered about her, she said:

"We must save this crop of wheat or I can't return to school this fall. Now to the man who shocks the most wheat to-day I will give three kisses and a hug, and to the man who is second I will give just two kisses and the third man a hug. Papa shall be the judge."

The effect on the men was electrifying. They worked harder than any harvest hands ever worked before in that country. The contest was very close throughout the day between Fred Norton, the son of a neighbor of the Hustons and two Eastern men.

When the last bundle of wheat had been shocked and was safe from the rain, which soon followed, it was found that Norton had won the prize. It was promptly bestowed, as were also the second and third prizes in the presence of all the harvesters.

Spoiled Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard, of 209 W. 34th St. New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. She writes: "I had Salt Rheum or Eczema for years, but nothing cured it until I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve." A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c at Z. Could See His Heart.

In Moberly recently there was a man selling mutilage, who is a curiosity to the medical fraternity, as his left lung is eaten away with consumption, and from six operations he had performed to obtain relief from physical ills a hole was made in his left side through which his heart could be plainly seen and its throbbing witnessed. The man claims that by holding his nose and closing his mouth he is enabled to breathe through the hole in the side. He has photographs showing the hole in his side and the caved-in appearance of his chest which is due to some of his ribs being removed. The man resides in Colorado and has written a book about himself, upon which he will obtain a copyright. Until he obtains the legal papers he refuses to make his name public.

DEGREES OF PRESIDENTS.

Roosevelt Away in the Lead, With a Record of Ten.

(New York Sun.)

Even before receiving the two doctorates conferred upon him recently Theodore Roosevelt had a larger collection of college degrees than any of his predecessors in the office of President of the United States.

Including his B. A., taken in course at Harvard 25 years ago, he has now had bestowed upon him 10 titles of distinction of this kind, and is privileged to write after his name eight L. L. D.'s and one L. H. D. This total is just twice the highest number of honorary degree given by the colleges of the country to any of his predecessors.

Washington, Jefferson and McKinley each received five degrees. John Adams and Rutherford B. Hayes each received four. Ulysses S. Grant received three.

Six other Presidents received two each, seven one each and four other of the nation's Chief Magistrates managed to end their days without any recognition of learning or achievements from the colleges. The record is extremely interesting to persons interested in statistics of the kind—and so far as known it has never before been compiled.

Another curious fact about Mr. Roosevelt's honorary degrees is that their number is exactly the highest of such honors bestowed on Presidents of the United States by any one college. Harvard and Princeton have each given the doctorate of laws to President nine times.

Yale has conferred the same degree on Presidents six times. Brown University, Columbia, Dartmouth and Union College have each bestowed an L. L. D., on three Presidents.

How Islands Get Forrester.

When traveling among the Islands of the Pacific or Atlantic one often wonders how it is that lands so far away from great continents have become covered with forest, but Darwin and other naturalist have solved the difficulty for us.

Thus we learn from Darwin that he took from the foot of a woodcock a cake of dry earth in which was a seed of the toadbrush. He planted the seed and it germinated and flowered.

Professor Newton sent him the leg of a partridge which had been wounded and unable to fly. Attached to it was a clod of earth weighing six and one-half ounces. He broke up the clod and placed it under the bell glass. No fewer than eighty-two plants sprang from it. It is the most interesting to know that the clod of earth containing this treasury was kept three years before planting.

Americans in Kentucky.

"There are counties in Kentucky where there is not a single resident of foreign birth," declared R. B. Baker, of Louisville. "The residents are the descendants of the old families who came to Kentucky when this State was known as the 'dark and bloody ground,' and who fought to make the State what it is to-day. They have no land to sell to foreigners, they have no business to do with them, therefore the foreign population settles elsewhere. I presume the same condition of affairs will be found in these same counties 50 years from now.

"Not anywhere else in this country can there be found a settlement which is more truly American. When you stop to consider the number of nationalities one meets gathered together in almost every part of the country, the way these Kentuckians have managed to keep to themselves is little less than marvelous."

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce J. H. MILES, of the office of Magistrate of the Rockport Magisterial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Examine the label on your paper if it is not correct notify us.

EVEN the pie-faced fellow does not always appear inviting.

SOME philanthropic gentleman should step up to Mr. Bryan and put the lid on; it has been off so long.

Isn't it about time some one was shaking a red rag in the face of the bull who is acting Mayor of Newport.

DEAD men tell no tales but in Louisville they vote dead or alive, their motto being "onst" a voter always a voter.

IT required three doctors to close an Iowa man's mouth. If he is a politician it will take an undertaker to keep it closed.

THE proposition to run automobiles with alcohol should be promptly turned down. They are misbehaving bad enough now.

A CONNECTICUT man who set a trap for a deer and caught his mother-in-law, is trying awfully hard to show his disappointment.

DEMOCRATIC orators in Ohio are stirring their followers to wild enthusiasm by predicting that the party will not get as badly walloped this year as they did last.

M. WITTE, the senior Russian peace plenipotentiary says that he fears Japan's peace terms will be entirely to high and adds, that Russia will resist all attempts of Japan to exact large sums as indemnity.

It has been stated that the Mayor of Newport had two teeth knocked out in his fight with the jailer on the occasion of Caleb Powers, being brought there. The Mayor swears they were knocked in.

REPUBLICANS still continue to add strength to their ticket by their splendid selections for Magistrate and Constable. Hartford district recently gave Nicholas Barrass for Magistrate and J. B. Dennis for Constable. Buford the same day gave Ben Chamberlain for Magistrate and H. L. Westernfield for Constable.

THE Hartford Herald pauses to say: "The old and much beloved expression that 'honesty is the best policy' is losing its meaning to a great extent in public affairs." The Herald probably gets its most striking proof of this fact from an observation of the public affairs of Ohio county. No doubt it has been investigating the iron bridge building which has been going on in the county during the past few years. And per chance it has been trying to figure out what has become of the $70,000 or $80,000 more taxes that have been collected in the past seven years than was collected in the seven years preceding that time. Yea verily the proverb seems to mean less than it formerly did.

Kentucky Tobacco Won.

Summer Clothing At Marked-Down Prices.

All odd lots of Summer Clothing have been put on bargain counters and the prices cut almost half in two. Drop in at Barnes' store and buy one of those marked-down Summer Suits. Seven Dollars choice for any of our Men's Suits that sold for $10, and $6.50 choice for any of another lot of Men's Suits that sold for $10. Only $5.50 choice of a lot of Men's Suits that sold for $8.50. These are bargains.

Men's Straw Hats.

Only broken lots of Men's and Boys' Straw Hats left, but we will offer you one so cheap that you will certainly buy it, just to finish out the season with. Try us and see. Bring your boy and drop in and we will fit him at a low price. You're pretty sure to find something desirable in this lot.

Wash Materials.

In the Dress Goods section you will find fine goods marked at about half the former price. Now is the time to buy a fine Dress at a very cheap price. If you enjoy saving money, just buy some of these cheap Wash Dress and Waist Materials. As bargains they're certainly the rarest we've offered yet.

Low-Cuts and Oxfords.

In this department we are well prepared to fit you up in a nice tan or black Low-Cut or Oxford at a very low price. You will also find odd lots of Slippers that can be bought at one-half their former price, and even lower. Buy some cheap Shoes and Slippers. It's a great chance for bargains in footwear.

Millinery.

Your chances in this department are growing less every day. Hats are growing less and prices getting lower. Every Hat has been badly butchered in price. Now is a money-saving time in our Millinery section. We have priced them so low that we feel sure of selling every Hat in our stock. Remember you can buy a Hat from 25c up—all new, seasonable Hats. Come quick and get first choice. Give us your orders. Also let us retrim your old Hats.

WEALTHY GIRL. Is a Deputy Sheriff and Has Arrested Some Though Characters.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]
On a ranch down in Texas there lives a young woman who for some time has been engaged in a vocation for which it has always been supposed only men were "cut out." She is a Deputy Sheriff of Mexico County, in the Lone Star State. This young woman's name is Clara Driscoll. She is no untaught lass of the "wild and woolly." Southwest, but is a highly educated, extremely wealthy young woman, who numbers almost her intimate friends the wealthiest and best-known people of the North. Almost every year sees her in Chicago and New York. In the latter city she is often the guest of the George Goulds.

Miss Driscoll is a small, lithe, active and very pretty girl. She first figured in the public life of her state when she made an effort to rescue from oblivion the celebrated old Alamo. Her father is the owner of the great Palo Alto ranch of 400,000 acres in Southwestern Texas. The ranch is about 18 miles from Corpus Christi and a little more than 1000 miles from the Rio Grande. When young she was sent to France, where she spent three years in a convent. When she returned to Texas she became known as the Diana of the Southwest, she being one of the best hunters in the state.

But the strangest side of the life of this young woman has to do with her commission as Deputy Sheriff of the county in which she lives. She has had numerous experiences with cattle rustlers and bandits and fence cutters, and she has proved her worth as an officer of the law.

One of her experiences had to do with the rustlers.

From time to time there had been on her father's ranch depredations by cattle rustlers and "fence cutters," mostly Mexicans from over the border. These men expected no mercy and gave none. A bullet cut down whoever happened to interpose between them and their retreat.

A trusted foreman, an elderly man had been shot dead by the desperadoes. Miss Driscoll was determined that justice should be meted out to these men whenever run down by her cowboys. The Sheriff or the Texas ranger might be miles and miles away when he was most needed, and she wanted no lynch law on her ranch. Then too, given as she was to riding on her spirited mustang to the outermost limits of the ranch, the license to carry a pistol gave her a complete sense of security.

It happened at a time when she had taken an unusually long ride and had started to return to the ranch over a more southerly route. It was midday. Entering a cove of low trees, she saw ahead the outline of a river bank. As she came nearer she detected a thin column of smoke rising from below the bank of the dried river bed. Thinking it was a part of her father's men, she rode up until she could get a better vision. There below, crouching over a fire they had built, were two Mexicans, villainous-looking built fellows near at hand lay their rifles. They were so absorbed in their occupation that they did not hear her approach. Her keen sense detected the odor of cooking flesh, and for the first time she noticed the carcass of one of her father's yearlings lying further on.

Then, as she thought of the fate of the former foreman, who had fallen a victim perhaps to these same men, she realized her peril. As an officer of the law it was her duty to arrest them at any cost. She drew her Colt's navy, and, covering them, she dashed down over the river bank. The men, taken unawares, threw up their hands.

They were commanded to move away from the fire, while she secured their rifles; then, womanlike, she saw that they appeared desperately hungry, and she allowed them to finish their roasting, and even ate with them.

This strange repast ended, the comely deputy mounted her mustang and marched these men ahead of her back to the ranch, where they were secured until a ranger took them in charge and saw them safely in Corpus Christi Jail.

The Neighbors Rave, Too.

Mrs. Nexdore—Prof. Fortay called at our house, to-day and my daughter played the piano for him. He just raved over her playing.

Miss Pepprey—How rude! Why couldn't he conceal his feelings the way the rest of us do?

True.

"If you go any deeper," said the patient bald-headed man to the mosquito. "I'll smash you."
"If you do," sang the tormentor, warningly, "my blood will be on your head."

BIG FAMILIES THE BEST.

Father Beck of the Holton Recorder has lined up on the side of President Roosevelt in the big family controversy and raises a new point to justify his position. "If the opposition will investigate the matter just a little it will find that nine out of ten of the great men and women of this country have been members of large families. And if it will carry the investigation a little farther it will discover that, as a rule, where there are only one or two children in the family they become spoiled and selfish and seldom amount to much. The more education you give a spoiled, selfish boy the worse you make him, unless he can in some way overcome his selfishness. We will leave it to any of our observing, intelligent readers if among their acquaintances the best boys and girls are not, as a rule, the members of large families."—Kansas City Journal.

Deceased Wife's Sister Muddled.

Our refusal to recognize marriage with a deceased wife's sister—which is legal in the Australian commonwealth—has led to many complications in the inheritance of property, and very embarrassing social incidents have happened. One of the most unpleasant occurred during the reign of the late queen. Arrangements had been made by the colonial office for the presentation of an Australian cabinet minister and his wife at court, but when it was found that the lady was a deceased wife's sister the proposed presentation was promptly overruled. Such an episode is not likely to be repeated, for King Edward when Prince of Wales voted in the house of lords for the legalization of marriage with a deceased wife's sister. —London Chronicle.

Sneezed Out a Bullet.

Colonel Sidney G. Cooke, local manager of the Leavenworth (Kan.) Soldiers' home, according to the Times of that city, probably is the only man in the world who ever sneezed a bullet out of his head. He was badly wounded at the battle of the Wilderness, a Confederate bullet having penetrated his brain. He was taken prisoner and sent to Andersonville after having his wound dressed by a doctor, who did not attempt to extract the bullet. Cooke recovered, and the lead in his "noggin" did not bother him at all. One day he commenced to sneeze, and he nearly sneezed himself to death. He sneezed for ten days. With the last sneeze came the bullet.

Chinese Chicken Farming.

Americans might go to school to the Chinese in the art of chicken farming. A traveler passing through the province of Chekiang a few weeks ago was struck with the enormous number of young chickens carried in the farmers' carts he met in the Tintal country. He made inquiries on the subject, and at length he was asked by a poultry farmer to go and inspect his rearing arrangements. The plant deals with 10,000 eggs at a time, and the average product is 5,000 chicks. The arrangements are simple and inexpensive. The eggs are examined at the end of the fourth day, and those that show no signs of fertilization are "sold cheap!"

Bad Luck In Cross Eyed Wax Figure.

There is a storekeeper in Kansas City who, although he doesn't know it, is losing trade through the presence of a wax figure of a woman in his show window.

The "woman" is comely, and she displays dresses very well, but she is cross eyed. "I'll bet I've heard twenty women talking about that cross eyed figure," said a policeman, who walks a beat near the store, recently. "Some of them are superstitious and actually refuse to buy at the store. They think the cross eyed woman will give them bad luck."—Kansas City Times.

Garcia Survives Them All.

To realize the age of Manuel Garcia, who recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday, it must be remembered that his first singing master, Giovanni Anzani, was alive in the days of Bach and Handel; that Schubert and Beethoven were still young when he was born; that Chopin and Mendelssohn were born just before him and that at the time of his greatest triumphs Wagner and Verdi were schoolboys. Every one of these musicians has been dead for years, but Garcia survives.

First Patent In China.

The Chinese government, according to German papers, has granted its first patent. It is for an electric lamp, the inventor of which is an inhabitant of Nanking, the old capital of the Chinese empire, who calls his lamp the "bright moonlight," and asserts that it is far superior to foreign glow lights that hitherto have been sold at Shanghai and other Chinese cities.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Serious Mistake of the Surgeons In a Rush Operation.

The man who had been taken from the wreck of the automobile and carried to the hospital is asked what his name is.

"Spudsgot," he whispered.
"Spudsgot," whispered the surgeons one to another. "This must be the multimillionaire. We must operate on him."

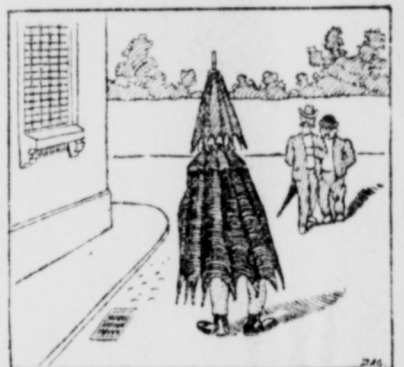

Rushing the patient to the operating room, they remove his appendix and are cleaning their instruments when one of the number, who has bethought himself to notify the family by telephone, rushes into the room and shouts:

"This is a terrible mistake! We have made a wrong diagnosis!"

"Impossible!" cry the others.

A hardworking fancy dealer had ransacked the whole shop in his efforts to please an old lady who wanted to purchase a present—"anything real nice"—for her granddaughter. For the fifteenth time she picked up and critically examined a neat little satchel.

"Are you quite sure that this is genuine alligator skin?" she inquired.

"Positive, madam," quoth the dealer. "I shot that alligator myself."

"It looks rather soiled," said the lady.

D. SWIFT & CO.

the 6th day of July, 1905, was not held for the reason that said election officers, whose duty it was to hold said election, had no ballot book or ballots to furnish the voters in said Aetnaville voting precinct by which they or any of them could cast their votes upon the question ordered submitted, to wit: Whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors should be sold, bartered, loaned or trafficked in within said Aetnaville voting precinct; and it appearing further that in some way said ballot book disappeared prior to the time of opening said poll in said precinct, and that this was only discovered at the time of opening said poll for said election, and that it was then too late to have other ballots prepared for voting on said question upon said date, and that therefore the judgment aforesaid of this court has not been performed, nor any election held, it is now ordered and directed that said election be held in said Aetnaville voting precinct on the first day of August, 1905, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters in said Aetnaville voting precinct upon the question whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold bartered, loaned or trafficked in within said voting precinct, and the Clerk of this court is directed to prepare poll book and ballots for said purpose and perform such other duties as the law requires in such cases, and the Sheriff of Ohio county is directed to advertise said election for at least two weeks just prior to date of election in some weekly or daily newspaper published in Ohio county, and upon said date, August 1, 1905, to open a poll at the voting place in said Aetnaville voting precinct for the purpose of holding said election. The election officers appointed will upon said date hold said election as required by law and this proceeding is continued.
A copy attest.
M. S. RAGLAND, Clerk.
By U. G. RAGLAND, D. C.

Pursuant to the foregoing order and judgment of the Ohio County Court, I will on Tuesday, August 1, 1905, cause a poll to be opened as and in the manner required by law at the voting place in Aetnaville voting precinct, Ohio county, Kentucky, to take the sense of the legal voters of said precinct qualified to vote for county officers, upon the proposition "Whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered, loaned or trafficked in, in the said Aetnaville precinct, Ohio county, Kentucky?" Given under my hand as Sheriff of Ohio county, Kentucky, this 14th day of July, 1905.

"Every man is entitled to a square deal."—PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

My Own Story By Caleb Powers

This book is a calm, dispassionate account, from the standpoint of the man most interested, of the conditions in Kentucky leading to the assassination of William Goebel, and of Powers' indictment and conviction on the charge of complicity in his murder.

It covers his youth in the mountains of Kentucky, the conventions of 1899, the election, the shooting of Goebel, the arrest, the three trials and the prison life.

For dramatic situations, human interest and political importance, the case of Caleb Powers is unequalled.

OPENED TO SETTLEMENT.

Another Tide of Immigration is Expected to Oklahoma.

El Reno, Okla., July 14.—The half million acre Indian pasture reserve lying southwest of El Reno has been ordered by Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock opened to settlement. The opening means the furnishing of 3,125 more homes to settlers and another tide of immigration to southwestern Oklahoma.

Indian Agent Randlett to-day was notified by telephone from Anadarko to prepare leases and advertise at once for bids to be opened on December 4th, next. All the lands will be leased in 160 acre tracts for a period of five years from January 1, 1906, at the minimum price of 25 cents per acre. No one person will be allowed to lease to exceed two sections of land, and all bids must be made separately for each quarter section. The rules require each lessee to cultivate all tillable land up to 75 per cent of the land leased. The lessee is given the privilege of releasing at the appraised valuation at the end of five years. No subleasing will be allowed without the consent of the Secretary of the interior.

Short Names and Fame.

Although a majority of the men in this country have three names, an unusual proportion of those who attain eminence in public life have only two.

Take the recent Cabinet changes as an illustration: Paul Morton resigned, John Hay died and Elihu Root is to return to the Cabinet. No middle name in any of these cases. Of 25 men who have held the office of President only seven have had more than two names. Of the 26 Vice-Presidents 13 have had two names and 13 have had three. The United States Supreme Court has had eight Chief Justices, four with two names, four with three. Of 38 Secretaries of State, including Mr. Root, 21 have but two names.

As every American-born boy has a chance to become President, parents would do well to give names easily said and easily remembered.

Regrettable.

A certain editor was visited in his office by a ferocious-looking military gentleman, who exclaimed, excitedly:

READ THIS

Richmond, Ky., Feb. 9, 1901.
Dr. E. W. Hall, St. Louis, Mo.—Dear Sir: I have used one bottle of the Texas Wonder Hall's Great Discovery for kidney and bladder trouble. I weighed 150 pounds when I began using it; to-day I weigh 176 pounds, and I feel better than I have in twenty years, and I cheerfully recommend it to the public.

Respectfully,
JOHN A. RIDDLE.

A TEXAS WONDER

One small bottle of Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, cures all kidney and bladder troubles, removes gravel, cures diabetes, seminal emission, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder trouble in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two month's treatment, and seldom fails to cure any of the above mentioned. Sold by all druggists. Dr. E. W. Hall, sole manufacturer, P. ly, as he entered: "That notice of my death in your paper to-day is a lie, sir. I'll horsewhip you in public sir, if you don't apologize in your next issue."

The next day the editor inserted the following apology:

"We extremely regret to announce that the paragraph in our issue of yesterday which stated that Colonel Brimstone was dead, is without foundation."

Greatly in Demand.

Nothing is more in demand than a medicine which meets modern requirements for a blood and system cleanser, such as Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are just what you need to cure stomach and liver troubles. Try them. At Z. Wayne Griffin & Bros., drug store, guaranteed.

Sergeant—Why didn't you stop those students when they became so noisy?

Policeman—I tried to. I arrested four of them—but they wouldn't come along with me.

Couldn't Reach the Big Ones.

The Rev. Francis J. McConnell, pastor of the New York Avenue M. E. church, one of the leading churches of Methodism, tells a good story on himself, repeating it publicly as well. He says that on a recent busy Saturday morning a man who had a scheme to promote and who was no doubt sent to him by one of the church members paid a visit to him and took a whole hour of his time telling him of a scheme in which he took no interest whatever. After listening to him as long as he could patiently he said to the promoter: "How in the world did you get at me anyhow. I have no interest or patience with what you propose, and we are both losing time."

"Well, I will tell you," said the promoter. "I cannot get access to the high grade preachers."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Undoubtedly.

FRIDAY, JULY 21.

SUBMARINE MINE A DANGER

Hidden Machines Have Caused More Damage Than Torpedo Boats and Torpedoes.

A remarkable fact, which also appears with regard to the torpedo, is the infrequent hits made when attacking ships at anchor, says the Navy League Journal. In the first attack made by the Japanese fleet from Port Arthur the Japanese destroyers slowed down and came within a short distance of the enemy, but, with everything in their favor, of the 23 torpedoes discharged only three made hits. On June 2 and 4, when the entire Russian fleet was outside the harbor, in a long series of attacks by the Japanese torpedo boats not the slightest damage resulted. As to ships in motion the torpedo has been proved to be absolutely useless, no hits having been made during the war, although attempts were repeatedly had. It would, therefore, appear that the efficiency of this weapon of war had been greatly exaggerated, for its failure cannot be attributed to any want of skill or courage on the part of the Japanese, who displayed at all times the greatest bravery and coolness.

But if the torpedo has been a disappointment the fear of it and the ignorance concerning its efficiency produced a marked change in naval actions, for it forced the fighting between the large ships at extreme long ranges, and proved that the 6-inch guns, with which most battleships are largely armed, were almost useless, the heavy guns—the 12, 10 and 8-inch—only being effective.

The greatest destructive agent employed by both antagonists, however, has been the submarine mine. By this means alone one-seventh of the battleship force on either side has been put out of action, and its use constitutes one of the most serious perils of the future unless restrained by international agreement to territorial waters. The mine has done what the torpedoes failed to do, and the long list of casualties to its credit proves it to be a most formidable engine of war.

What has been clearly demonstrated and can be accepted for future guidance is that torpedoes are not to be dreaded as formerly; that in an engagement between battleships the large guns only are effective, and that submarine mines, while the most deadly of all modern instruments of warfare, are inhuman and barbarous, and should be restrained by the laws of war.

PAINT PORTRAITS OF EYES

Novel Miniatures in Natural Colors Prized as Mementoes by Friends of the Absent Ones.

The delicately painted picture of the eye glowing with life is rapidly becoming a favorite memento of the absent friend.

The first sight of one of these eye portraits gives one an almost uncanny impression. From the monotonous wall there looks down a tiny, vivid human eye without a face. So perfectly executed is this eye that the flicker of laughter in it is weird in its expressiveness.

There are several eye portraits now on view at the galleries of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colors in London, and they are attracting a great deal of attention.

A well-known miniature portrait painter said the other day that many men were treasuring portraits of their sweethearts' eyes, and in addition ladies in their turn were keeping the eyes of their male friends. They were mostly put into lockets.

"The eye," she said, "is by far the most expressive feature of the face, and sometimes makes a portrait in itself. It is, of course, the expression that tells. The eye gives its own story, laughing or serious. The shadows round it, the brows above, help, of course, but it's the light in the eye that is the great thing."

"How do we get our eyes painted?" they don't come to be painted. It's the people with nice eyes, and often people whose eyes are the best part of their face. The price varies, running from five guineas. As you may guess it is delicate work, but it is very satisfactory when you have nice eyes to deal with."

NOT WORTH THE MONEY.

Lady at Circus Wanted More Double "Humper" Camels and More Hair on Single Ones.

A tall woman with a determined expression, and surrounded by six children of assorted sizes, approached the attendant of the menagerie and eyed him with a relentless gaze.

"What nationality is that elephant?" she inquired, indicating one close at hand.

"Comes from Africa, ma'am," said the attendant.

"He's dreadful light-colored to have come from tropical parts," said the woman, sternly. "And look here," she added, as the attendant started away from her family group, "they've got a mighty poor lot of camels here, according to my lights. Not but one hump on any of 'em except that feller that's so old he keeps his eyes shut!"

The attendant again essayed to depart, but she clutched him by the sleeve.

"You tell the owners of this show what I say!" she commanded. "You tell 'em that when a woman pays fifty cents for herself and one fifty for a mess of children she looks to see more'n one double humper, and more hair on the single humpers—not have 'em look as if the moths had got into 'em. Now mind you tell 'em!"

SHE HAD MET MRS. MURPHY

But When She Saw Her Husband the Meeting Was Not Nearly as Pleasant.

Childish precocity is not confined within any definite area of thought. A young miss of five had recently visited the Central Park Zoo under the guardianship of mamma, and was greatly interested in the hippopotamus family, which was disporting in the open-air water trough for the first time this year. The female representative of the species is known both to the keepers and the public as Mrs. Murphy.

A few evenings later mamma entertained a visitor, Murphy by name, and little Elsie, on entering the parlor, was introduced.

"I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Murphy," she said with ingenuous grace. "I saw your wife in the park the other day. She's awfully fat."

Mr. Murphy expressed his pleasure with difficulty.

Crittenden County Items.

Repton, Ky., July 15, 1905.

Editor REPUBLICAN:—We have had a splendid season so far and crops look fine. We have had no rain since Thursday morning and farmers are making use of the sunshine in making hay, though there is very little of that article here compared with what we were used to in Ohio county. We had dry weather from the last of May to about the 20th of June and all of the early planted corn had been well cultivated when the rains began. It is the finest prospect we have had since I have been in the county. The wet weather has damaged the wheat considerably.

I want to give you some idea how politics are running in this county. I suppose the machine is running here, as no Republican is allowed on the grand or petit jury. But we run the county affairs as we are 350 majority, Republican. I am afraid we are too strong to be as "clean" as we should be. For instance, our County Judge was a candidate before the primary for renomination and in his letter of announcement he said he was willing to stand on his own record, and got just 200 out of 1500 votes and he is under indictment for forging. His case was continued at the last term of court, but a responsible person told me he thought there was not much in the case and as the machine seems to be so strongly at work it may be a spite case, something similar to the May-or's of Newport, Ky.

I gave you a little account of our fire in Marion March 28. Now I want to give you some idea of the build up. There are 21 buildings under way and completed in the burned district. There are two ware rooms, one bakery and one machine shop completed, also one frame cottage residence, the balance are all business houses and when completed Marion will put on quite a different appearance, as they are all fine modern buildings. The Masonic temple is a three story with unfinished stone trimming and front of cream pressed brick. The Marion Bank building will be a beauty. It has finished stone trimming and is all cream pressed brick. The post-office is also cream pressed brick. Nearly all the balance of the buildings are of red pressed brick.

Have not time to give any thing like a description of all of the building. Business has been badly mixed up since the fire. Eight firms are conducting their business in tents. Of course it looks Western. There is a jeweler in a law office, a drug store in a furniture store and the post office is so small you go in edge ways. No more at present, will tell you what we are doing in our mineral district soon.
